

Mexican American Literature

MIRROR COURSE

with Dr. Loni Kinsey

This course surveys a wide variety of literature produced by Mexican Americans, from the 1950s to today, which cultivates an appreciation for the culture that produces this literature; instills critical thinking skills needed for success in our global community; and exposes students to Mexican American culture, including some language, history, and social context. The course surveys works by many Mexican American writers, such as Erika Sánchez, Luis Alberto Urrea, Gloria Anzaldúa, Sandra Cisneros, and Juan Felipe Herrera, just to name a few. No Spanish language skills necessary to participate.

Dr. Loni Kinsey

Meet the Instructor

Dr. Loni Kinsey has taught English, Spanish, and ESL since 2003. She studied Spanish, English as a Second Language, and Secondary Education at The University of Texas at Tyler and law at South Texas College of Law. She earned a Ph.D. in English from Texas A&M University - Commerce, concentrating on literature from America, Britain, Spain, and Latin America, including Mexican American literature and a focus on literacy studies and the working class. She grew up speaking Spanish in her home, living with her bilingual brother and his Panamanian, Spanish-speaking wife and child. Additionally, she spent a summer in Mexico with a study-abroad program, where she lived with a host family and attended a language institution. She and her husband have three daughters.
